Fever	Cough	Backache	Sick or Nauseous
Measles	Stuffy nose	Dizzy	Chicken pox
Cold	Diarrhea	Stomach ache	Flu

I must have eaten something bad. My stomach is churning. I'm going to vomit.

I have got a high temperature and very little energy. It's much worse than a cold.

I keep sneezing. My nose is runny and sometimes I get a cough.

My body feels very hot, I need to have lots of drink and take some aspirin or paracetamol.

I feel like I can't stand up, everything is spinning around me.

My body aches and I have a fever. Have spots and a rash

My tummy hurts. Either I ate too much or I ate something bad.

I have a tickle in my throat. When I do this a lot it hurts my chest.

I have to keep running to the toilet. I must drink of water.

My body is covered in a red rash and my skin is quite itchy.

I get a sharp pain in my back when I bend or twist my body.

I can't breathe easily through my nose. It feels blocked.

A photograph of two stuffed animals, a brown monkey on the left and a brown bear on the right, lying on a light-colored, textured surface. The monkey is wearing a green, ribbed, cone-shaped object around its neck. A white digital thermometer lies on the surface in front of them, displaying '38.2°'. A white speech bubble with an orange border is positioned between the two animals, containing the text 'Let's talk.'.

Let's talk.
